Contents

Preface vii

1. The Transgenerational Experience 1
Introduction 1
The scope of the impact 6
An attempt to categorize the responses 17
When the parent's past is kept secret 19
Resentment and aversion 23
Alienation, awe, and distancing 36
A time for self-realization 50
The story must be told 58
To conclude 79

2. The Inherited Memory 81
Introduction 81
"You grow up and tell my story" 82
The perpetrator's continuing denial 94
The obligation to remember 123
The past is lived like the present 142