the Republic of Armenia, provided detailed explanations. They are as follows:

> According to Article 19 of the Criminal Code of the 1938 Constitution of the Armenian SSR, Articles 61, 63, 65 and 68 have been applied in your father's case.
>
> Article 19: If a crime has not reached its completion, then judgment is made by applying the articles that concern the type of crime at issue.
>
> Article 61: Any kind of collaboration with the international bourgeoisie with the objective of overthrowing the Communist regime.
>
> Article 63: Espionage, that is, the communication of state secrets to foreign countries and anti-revolutionary organizations.
>
> Article 65: Committing terrorist acts against representatives of the Soviet Union.
> Article 68: All kinds of organizational activities that relate to the preparation or the realization of crimes defined by this section [Article 19] of the legislation.

These are nothing but fabricated allegations consistent with the repetitious questions put to my father during his lengthy interrogation, clearly showing that the NKVD was trying to invent a Dashnaktsutiun conspiracy against the Communist regime and pin the crime on him.

And finally, the last document in the envelope is the four-page letter my father wrote to "The Commissar of
